

A Different Kind of Resolution

I hereby resolve:

to not take myself so seriously.

to not win arguments to love the people nobody seems to be loving to connect on a deeper level with my friends to be honest in my conversations to treat myself like Jesus treats me to leave people alone when they want to be left alone to not fix my family to laugh more

to dream more

to give more

to treasure sleep

to weep without shame to rest when I'm tired to celebrate the accomplishments of others to live wholeheartedly

to never judge

to always love

to be present

to be available to put people above agendas to live in a perpetual state of gratitude

In other words, this year, I'll try to go to Heaven.

If I do all this I won't have to wait until I die to get there.