

Some Say...

Some say God has a home for the strong ones only And yet he has a place for the lost and lonely Some say their popularity will send them to his throne And yet His heart's pursuing those who walk alone Some say that God draws near to those who win acclaim But He's drawn to every failure who feels the weight of shame Some measure out their lives by all that they achieve But his eye is on the hurting, struggling to believe Self-made men are many,
their trophies we behold
But He redeems the heartaches of stories never told.